Statement of Purpose *

During an esports tournament in engineering college, I found myself more interested in how teams were managed, the coordination and strategy discussions, than the gameplay itself. Solving a dispute in my team that later helped us win made me value how leadership shapes outcomes. Managing my college team and studying organisations like S8UL and Falcon further exposed me to the role of leadership and operational clarity in driving performance and community impact.

This curiosity later translated into action when I set up a small gaming parlour, where I handled branding, operations and customer interactions. The experience made me realise how much I enjoy building systems, managing people and solving operational problems.

An MBA from FMS is the right next step to refine these instincts, gain structured management knowledge and pursue consulting roles that will help me scale my entrepreneurial ideas and build an organisation centred on strong people culture and high-performance teams.

Experience Details

I set up and managed a small gaming parlour, handling end-to-end operations including space design, branding, pricing, vendor coordination and daily cash-flow management. I interacted with customers regularly, understood usage patterns and adapted services to improve their experience. Managing budgeting, purchases and operational issues gave me hands-on exposure to problem-solving and practical decision-making, and helped me understand how small details shape user experience.

Alongside this, I formed and managed a college BGMI esports team. I coordinated scrims, handled team communication, resolved conflicts and analysed performance after matches. Working with diverse players taught me how to bring people together, balance different perspectives and take responsibility in high-pressure moments. These experiences strengthened my interest in people management, operations and execution under pressure.

Extra Curricular Activity

I have participated in diverse extracurriculars across sports, cultural and gaming domains. I won a Silver Medal in the Kudo District Karate Championship, which strengthened my discipline and resilience through multi-year practice. I also play the guitar and performed at college fests, which improved my comfort with creative collaboration and public expression.

In esports, I formed and managed a BGMI team, organised scrims, coordinated communication and participated in local tournaments, developing skills in leadership, strategy and team dynamics. I also assisted my cousin, a travel content creator with ~2M YouTube subscribers, in basic video editing, content ideation and understanding audience reactions, which introduced me to digital creativity.

Alongside this, I maintain a consistent fitness routine that builds discipline and keeps me grounded, and I regularly follow esports and content trends as long-term interests.

List of Academic Honours, Prizes, Scholarship and Other Details

I secured strong ranks in English Olympiads, achieving State Rank 70 / National Rank 251 and State Rank 47 / National Rank 127, reflecting early interest in language proficiency and analytical reasoning. I qualified for NIT Srinagar through JEE Mains, which strengthened my quantitative foundation and problem-solving skills, and exposed me to a rigorous technical environment.

During engineering, I engaged in project-based coursework involving analytical thinking, structured problem-solving and teamwork. Alongside academics, I pursued self-directed learning in business, markets and communication, explored management content, case discussions and competitive exam material to build a broader academic perspective. These initiatives helped me stay curious, improve independent learning habits and stay aligned with my long-term career direction.
